

HAWTHORNE BREAKS GROUND ON HANGAR AT CHICAGO EXECUTIVE AIRPORT

News / Airports / Routes, Business aviation

Chicago Executive Airport announced groundbreaking of Hawthorne Global Aviation Services' 36,900-square facility to include Class A hangar and office space. Construction of the Hangar 22 project is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The new facility is in compliance with the airport's Master Plan which has been approved by the Village of Wheeling and the City of Prospect Heights.

CEA Chairman D. Court Harris, commented: "We welcome Hawthorne's significant investment at the airport and are excited about their expansion, especially the important addition of hangar space. These improvements will enhance the airport's value as an important economic engine for our community."

David Annin, Hawthorne Global General Manager, said: “This proposed space will help us better accommodate our customers and maintain the highest level of customer service our users have come to expect from us. I want to thank Chicago Executive Airport for their support on this project.”

Hawthorne, a CEA fixed-based operator since 2014, is expanding its current footprint and operations at the airport. Once completed, Hangar 22 will provide new tax revenue, additional ground rent, and fuel flowage fees to the airport.

According to CEA Executive Director Jeff Miller, CEA has seen an increase in corporate and business flights. “The new Hawthorne hangar showcases our ability to work with key partners who share our interest in making Chicago Executive the premier destination for business and leisure travelers. We will continue to work with all stakeholders to pursue opportunities that allow us to invest in this important infrastructure,” said Miller.

Chicago Executive Airport, jointly owned by the Village of Wheeling and City of Prospect Heights, is the fourth-busiest airport in Illinois and a top reliever for Chicago O'Hare and Midway airports. With three premier fixed-base operators and many high-quality corporate charter operations, CEA is the hassle-free choice for executive and private planes bound for domestic and international destinations. A true community partner, CEA currently generates an estimated $4.1 million per year in tax revenue for local entities and $1.3 million for the state.
