News / Business aviation, Events / Festivals

In total, 86 IADA companies will be at NBAA-BACE. That number includes IADA-accredited aircraft dealers, OEM members and IADA-verified products and services members. Thirteen IADA member companies are scheduled to exhibit aircraft for sale at Orlando Executive Airport during the convention. IADA Executive Director Wayne Starling, commented: “Clearly, NBAA-BACE is a special and effective business aviation venue for IADA’s members. Our membership is excited about renewing relationships with their clients and, of course, buying and selling airplanes.”

In addition to a strong presence at the aviation show, IADA schedules its annual fall member meeting in the NBAA-BACE host city in the days prior to business aviation’s most iconic showcase. This year IADA planners expect 300 members to attend the IADA business meeting to discuss industry issues. Activities include IADA U technical course work, broker testing and member meetings.

IADA has also scheduled a press conference at NBAA-BACE to release the results of its 2022 Third Quarter Market Report, which includes documented aircraft sales transaction data. The quantitative statistics provide a backdrop for a qualitative analysis of the perceptions from the most active brokers and transaction support experts in the industry to assess where the market is headed in the next six months.

IADA's AircraftExchange marketing search portal is the only site where every aircraft listed for sale is represented by an accredited dealer. AircraftExchange enables users to create a confidential dashboard of business jets for sale, filtered based on their features and amenities, class size, age, and price. Users can browse through data-rich listings for some of the most available business aircraft. For more info go to <https://www.AircraftExchange.com>.
