

UAS ADDS FLEXIBLE GLOBAL FLIGHT PLANNING PLATFORM PPS TO TECHNOLOGY OFFERING

News / Business aviation, Events / Festivals

Global trip support and aviation technology solutions provider, UAS International Trip Support has teamed up with global provider of advanced aviation software and ADS-B network, AIR SUPPORT A/S to add the world-class PPS flight planning system to UAS' technology offering. As an added benefit, UAS' team of flight planning specialists are offering 24/7 expert support for PPS users to assist or guide them when necessary.

Used by hundreds of operators in more than 90 countries, PPS is the most flexible flight planning platform on the market today. Providing worldwide coverage, it can be fully tailored and optimized to operators' requirements and contributes significantly to a cost-efficient integrated OCC. PPS includes the integrated CrewBriefing web application and is perfect for business operators who demand an efficient and easy-to-use software solution. UAS specializes in the provision of a variety of valuable system add-ons and advanced interfaced solutions to airline operators and business aviation operators, who utilize 3rd party aviation software systems. Users can also benefit from 24/7 support driven by UAS' flight planning experts.

"The real benefit of accessing PPS through UAS is the support we can offer. Too often, system issues or lack of knowledge about certain locations means relying exclusively on an internal team can damage momentum. With UAS, operators can contact UAS at any time and we can step in at any stage during the process where they are experiencing difficulty or uncertainty,” said Mohammed Al Husary, UAS Co-Owner/Founder and Executive President.

“With UAS’ experts available to support or take over the flight plan at a moment’s notice, operators can ensure they get the most out of the platform,” he added.

“AIR SUPPORT is very proud to have UAS onboard, and we firmly believe that a long-term prosperous partnership is born,” said Air Support, COO Peter Gravesen, COO of AIR SUPPORT.

UAS International Trip Support is an award-winning, customized trip support solutions provider serving customers globally. Offering a one-stop shop for all aviation needs including trip support, executive travel, and air charter, UAS is trusted by Heads of State, VVIPs, Fortune Global 500 companies, and business jet operators worldwide. Founded in 2000 with a vision to serve places other suppliers had yet to reach served before, UAS has been at the forefront anticipating demands and exceeding the expectations of its clients ever since. With a ground presence at 31 locations, its global network is constantly expanding to ensure clients receive the best supervision and quality at every destination. UAS channels its expertise and experience to deliver game-changing technology solutions designed specifically for business aviation. Its over-riding mission is to revolutionize the international business flight user experience.
