WELCOME NEWEST MEMBER OF INTERNATIONAL AIRCRAFT DEALERS ASSOCIATION - JETAVIVA

News / Business aviation

jetAVIVA becomes the newest accredited member of IADA, the International Aircraft Dealers Association. The company achieved a record-breaking sales year in 2021, recording the highest annual revenue in the company's 15-year history, and reporting more than 100 transactions.

"The IADA board of directors is delighted that jetAVIVA, one of the largest aircraft dealers in the world, has made the decision and commitment to join with other IADA-accredited dealers," said IADA Executive Director Wayne Starling. "We are so very pleased to welcome jetAVIVA into our organization, which exemplifies the very best aircraft dealers and transaction experts available anywhere in the world," he added.

"Collaborating with the top dealers and partners in the industry is something that always fuels greater success for the industry," said Emily Deaton, who was recently promoted to CEO at jetAVIVA. "We look forward to working with the IADA dealer network to ultimately help our collective client base achieve their goals."

Deaton added, "Our accreditation and commitment to having our brokers become IADA certified, further supports jetAVIVA's commitment to our clients and comprehensive service offering backed by our industry-leading sales methods."

With many thousands of aircraft sold and bought by the jetAVIVA team, jetAVIVA provides expertise and client focus to those purchasing a turbine aircraft. From aircraft selection to familiarization, acquisition to technical evaluation, jetAVIVA has the knowledge, understanding and experience to perfectly match the right aircraft with the mission requirements that are right for clients.
