CS100 COMPLETES FLIGHT TESTING

News / Manufacturer

Bombardier Commercial Aircraft has announced that the CS100 aircraft has completed its certification flight testing.

Bombardier is currently in the process of finalising the submission of Type Certificate documentation for Transport Canada Approval.

“We have already started to see increased excitement and interest in many communities as our all-new C Series aircraft - the first new aircraft produced for the 100- to 150-seat segment in the last three decades - prepares to enter service with SWISS in the first half of 2016," said Rob Dewar, vice president, C Series Aircraft programme, Bombardier Commercial Aircraft.

Since starting route proving earlier this month, the CS100 aircraft has stopped in over 20 locations across the United States and Canada.
